Battlewise Men of the 37th Soon Learn To Outfox Japs

News Story Relates Experience of Kenton Captain in Pitch Blackness of Pacific Island Night.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 4—The trees have ears—Japanese ears—in the southwest Pacific islands area it's worth your life to be addressed as "colonel or "sir."

That's why, the war department said today, American jungle fighters have taken to calling their officers by their first names.

Accounts reaching the department from men and officers of the 37th (Buckeye) division on Bougainville island in the Solomons indicate that formalities of military life have completely disappeared in jungle warfare.

A buck private may address his commanding officer as Charlie or Ben. Officers get code names or nicknames. The army says Japanese snipers are adept at picking off the officers. So the officer wears no insignia.

One day a private was trying to get his jeep through a swamp. Another jeep came along. Riding it it was a brigadier general. He wore no insignia to indicate any rank.

"Get the hell off the road and let me get by," yelled the private. "I've got front line supplies."

Without a change of expression, the general motioned his driver to pull off the road so the supplies could go through.

The enemy listens, carefully, said the men, snipers a few hundred yards from a regimental supply dump listened to the calls going out from a field telephone. Most of the calls were for "Hipp," which was the name given to a major who was a supply officer.

Rifles Break It Up

During the night, the men said, the Japs would call out, "Hipp, you're wanted on the telephone." It was finally broken up by some truck drivers with automatic rifles.

When the troops leave the combat area, all the informality between officers and men ceases, but while fighting is on, the officers carry entrenching shovels and dig their own foxholes.

Living on Bougainville has been no picnic, the war department was told.

If bombs aren't falling and it is quiet at the time, the soldier will string up a hammock between two trees, pull his mosquito bar over him and begin to wonder about the folks back home. He turns in about 7 p. m. unless he has some particular duty.

Usually it begins to rain and his close-by foxhole gets half filled with water. "Washin Machine Charley," a Japanese two-engined bomber drones over on one of his frequent nightly trips. The air raid siren screams. The soldiers runs or slides into his water filled foxhole.

"Charley" makes a dummy run, circles back and bombs begin to fall. Fragments whistle through trees. Then the raid is over and the soldier crawls back into his hammock and dozes again.

The Americans like to take Japanese battle flags for souvenirs.

CROSS BORDER NEAR STARTING POINT OF WAR

Report Another Russian Army Speeding Toward Rumanian Border.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 4—Red army forces under Gen Nikolai Vatutin, liberator of Kiev, were rolling over the flat terrain of old Poland today after capturing the former frontier town of Olevsk and smashing their way across the pre-war Russian-Polish border.

Fall of Olevsk and Novograd-Volynski, 42 miles to the south, was announced last night in a Russian communique which declared 170 villages had been recaptured in the Soviet advance. Front line dispatches disclosed that Russian vanguards, pushing on rapidly from Olevsk along the Kiev-Warsaw railway, had crossed the old frontier a short time later.

Near Where War Started

The point at which the Russians crossed the pre-war Polish border is approximately 150 miles east of the frontier from which the Germans launched their invasion of Russia after the partition of Poland and is about 300 miles from Warsaw.

The southern wing of Vatutin's army, meanwhile was plunging on from captured Dzerzhinsk, 35 miles southwest of Zhitomir, in a drive which Marshal Fritz Von Manstein's rearguards have appeared unable to check ever since their defeat in the battle of the Kiev bulge.

The Nazis, said the Russian communique, were surrendering by the hundreds, and going "over to the side of the Red army" by entire companies.

Drive Toward Rumania

Other spearheads of Vatutin's army were pushing toward the Rumanian border, more than 80 miles to the southwest. They slashed the Kazatin-Zhmerinka and Kazatin-Uman railways serving the 500,000 Germans believed still in southern Russia.

Dispatches said these spearheads were within 35 miles of the main Warsaw-Odessa trunk railway and were driving for Vinnitsa, 22 miles to the southwest, and Zhmerinka, to seal off the German forces to their east.

On the Baltic front Gen. Ivan Bagramian's troops were reported within 45 miles of Latvia.

MOSCOW, Jan. 4. The Soviet army organ Red Star said today in a front dispatch that Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army was capturing rich booty in war material as the badly-beaten Germans west of Olevsk beat a hasty retreat into pre-war Poland.

Capital Watches for Clash Between Russians and Poles

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 4—Diplomatic observers here watched the Russian army's westward drive today with fingers crossed in the hope that no border incidents will arise to snap the tension between Russia and the Polish government in exile.

The question of whether the smoldering feeling between Poland and Russia, which do not have diplomatic relations, will flare up depends on actions taken by the Polish underground, the conduct of the Red army, and the attitude of the Polish government in London.

Jan Kwapinski, Polish deputy premier who attended the United Nations relief conference in Atlantic City, said in Chicago three weeks ago instructions had been issued to the Polish underground and that they had been submitted to the British and American high commands.

He did not indicate whether the chiefs of staff approved.

A statement put out by a high Polish source last month declaring the people in eastern Poland may fight occupying Russian troops was looked upon as outdated by a Polish embassy spokesman today who said subsequent developments at Teheran and London have somewhat changed the situation.

The Pole took the stand earlier that the Red army should be accompanied by American and British officers and diplomatic relations should be renewed with Russia before the occupation begins.

Murder or Suicide Seen As Eventual Fate for Hitler

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakian foreign minister, predicted today that Hitler won't live long enough to be tried as a war criminal.

"He'll either be taken care of by the military or commit suicide," Masaryk told an interviewer.

People seem to forget, he went on, that there is cowardice behind the Nazi strategy.

Masaryk, who has been in this country, as chief of the Czech delegation to the United Nations relief conference, said there will be two kinds of trials of war criminals after the war.

The important ones will be taken care of quickly, the others may drag on longer.

But the British and Americans will have to help clean up Nazi terrorists, he declared.

After the Nazis who participated actively in atrocities have been wiped out, Masaryk said there would have to be a period of quarantine for Germany.

As for the satellite countries, Masaryk indicated there is a wide difference between the people and the rulers and that when the crust of totalitarian sympathizers has been shorn off, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania will be able to rejoin the family of peace-loving nations.

The Czechs do not share fears expressed by other small countries that Russia, Britain and the United States will dominate the post war world to the detriment of less powerful nations, he said.

JAPS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

Advance of U. S. Bases in Pacific Takes Increasing Toll of Planes.

By The Associated Press

The Japanese are paying an increasingly heavy price to fight off thrusts at their hemmed-in bases in the southwest Pacific while American troops are building up invasion-won wedges in the enemy's own defense system.

Allied planes, striking in the New Guinea-New Britain-New Ireland sector, bombed key enemy points, damaged four warships and destroyed at least 33 Nipponese planes.

In the central Pacific, a Japanese broadcast said, 14, Mitchell bombers struck at Tarao in the Marshall islands. Two of the raiders were reported shot down.

Marines Widen Beachhead

U. S. Marines widened their beachheads at Cape Gloucester on the western end of New Britain as patrols advanced from the eastern and western flanks. The first American plane landed at Borgen bay to deliver vital equipment.

Soldiers of the American 32nd division established a firm grip at Saidor on the northeast coast of New Guinea. The Japanese made their first aerial attack on the beachhead killing one man. Road building proceeded in advance of probable reconstruction of the captured landing field.

The Japanese also raided U. S. Sixth army holdings on Arawe, on the southwest coast of New Britain, but the attack was termed ineffective.

South Pacific carrier-based planes caught two Japanese heavy cruisers and two destroyers in the Kavieng, New Ireland, harbor New Year's day and set both cruisers and one destroyer afire. The enemy lost a total of 13 planes in the accompanying air battle which cost the Americans three aircraft.

Incendiary Bombs Named As New Product at Scioto Plant

Missles Like Those Spreading Ruin in Germany To Be Turned Out Here by Kaiser Subsidiary.

The Chemical Warfare Service of the war department disclosed today in an announcement from Pittsburgh that the new project at the Scioto Ordnance Plant being set up by a subsidiary of the Henry J. Kaiser organization will manufacture incendiary bombs.

The announcement, released through Capt. Rodger W. McNaughton, public relations officer of the Pittsburgh Chemical Warfare Procurement district at Pittsburgh, also stated that the Permanente Metals Corp. is the name of the Kaiser subsidiary firm that will operate the Scioto project.

In keeping with the havoc that incendiary bombs have been working in Berlin and other bombed enemy cities, the Scioto project will be known as the Fitzlands plant of the Chemical Warfare Service. The name suggests the condition of the target areas after the incendiary bombs have struck.

Probable Starting Time

Capt. McNaughton's announcement stated that about Jan. 15 the new plant will begin production of the incendiary bombs which are doing such heavy damage to the German industrial centers, including Hamburg and Berlin.

"Recent dispatches," he said, "have attributed 90 per cent of the damage in the city of Berlin to the action of incendiary bombs. It is believed that the new bomb plant will play a substantial part in the knocking of Germany out of the war."

Although there has been no announcement of details about the operations here, it is expected that the new plant, after a breaking-in period during which workers will be trained for their new tasks, will employ in the neighborhood of 300 workers.

Line Being Prepared

At present, some 200 construction workers of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. are busy outfitting one of the largest of Scioto's nine production lines for its new use by the Chemical Warfare Service. The set of buildings in this production line makes it one of the largest on Scioto's 12,000-acre site. These buildings were originally used as a fuze loading line and later were one of the two sets of buildings converted to the production of small arms ammunition. Manufacture of small arms ammunition at the plant was halted recently by order of the war department.

The Permanente Metals Corp. has had representatives in Marion on several occasions supervising preparations for opening the plant. The company's representatives in Marion are headed by R. E. Knight as project manager.

PROOF OF WAR DELAY CHARGE DEMANDED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Demands were intensified today that the recent statement that axis propaganda based on American rail and steel disputes had prolonged the war and cost allied lives be supported publicly or recanted by the anonymous author.

Authorship of the statement was attributed to Gen. George C. Marshall by AFL President William Green who said the chief of staff "was reported" to have made it, and he challenged him to prove it. There was no immediate comment from Marshall.

Following a vague reference to the source by White House secretary Stephen Early as "a little bit more military than President Roosevelt, a storm of protest arose over the statement.

In congress, one Republican, two Democrats and Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin Progressive joined in voicing a belief the unidentified personage should assume the burden of responsibility for the statement.

LaFollette asserted the charges "are far too serious to be permitted to remain anonymous."

Rep. Shafer (R-Ind), suggested congress should begin an official inquiry, adding that while the country has no sympathy with strikes now, it "is merely reaping what the New Deal has sown."

Green, recalling the New Year's eve statement that rail and steel strike threats may have delayed victory by giving Hitler's propagandists a telling talking point, said responsibility for the dispute "rests entirely upon ouangling, fumbling and incompetent handling by government officials and agencies."

BEARING PLANT HIT BY FORTS

Nothern Italian Factory Turns Out Material for German War Machine.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 4—U. S. Flying Fortresses knocked out the bearing plant at Villa Perosa in northern Italy yesterday and battered the Turin railway yards, it was announced today, while aground Eighth army Indian troops seized a hill and advanced inland from the Adriatic.

Soggy terrain stymied large-scale land fighting, but American troops probed defenses of San Vittore guarding the Rome road.

Allied fliers wrecked or damaged dozens of German supply trucks found snow bound in mountain passes, and bombed the Yugoslav ports of Split and Sibenik.

Fortresses of the 15th air force wrecked the main building of the Villa Perosa plant producing eight per cent of the Nazis' output of bearings.

(A Berlin broadcast declared a "terror attack" was made yesterday on the communications center of Pistoia, 21 miles northwest of Florence.)

On the Eighth army front, Indian troops captured a hill a mile and a half from recently-won Tornareccio, and advanced from Ortona almost to Tollo, five miles inland.

The Nazis replied to American patrol stabs on the Fifth army sector by shelling Mignano.

JAPS STRAFE AIRMEN

By The Associated Press

SOUTH PACIFIC AMPHIBIOUS HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 4—Six American fliers in New Year's day raid against Lakunai airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, bailed out of a falling Liberator and Japanese fighters were seen to strafe the men as they went down. The Americans received some consolation in the fact that 20 enemy planes were shot down in the attack. Six more listed as probables.

Jap Air Opposition Weakens As Marshall Raids Continue

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 4—Secretary of the Navy Knox reported today that American air forces are "continuing to soften up" the Marshall islands and are encountering weak opposition in the air.

He referred to continuing raids on enemy bases at Wotje, Kwajalein, Mille, Jaluit and other bases.

"We are putting the enemy on the defensive throughout that region," the secretary said at a news conference.

American forces have suffered few losses, he said.

In retaliation, the Japanese have made two raids on American positions at Tarawa and one on Makin island.

"Most of the bombs fell into the water," Knox said.

Throughout the south Pacific area, he added, "enemy air strength seems to be very weak and in such actions as have taken place the Japanese have been on the defensive."

Two Jap Cruisers Hit

He described as one of the most interesting actions in the area the New Year's day attack by an American carrier task force on Japanese ships off New Ireland. Two enemy heavy cruisers were hit with 1,000-pound bombs and torpedoes and sunk or beached at Kaviena. In addition, two destroyers were bombed and strafed, one probably sinking and the other suffering severe damage.

Planes from the task force, Knox reported, were intercepted by 20 to 30 Japanese fighter planes, he said 11 enemy fighters were shot down and four probably destroyed in addition to one Japanese medium bomber shot from the air.

Knox asserted the Germans "are imitating the Japanese" in making

RATIONING REDUCES GAS, LIQUOR TAXES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4—Rationing cut gasoline and liquor revenues last year $20,825,631 under 1942, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

In 1942 these two revenue sources for the state brought in $81,801,230. Last year revenue from the same sources fell to $60,975,599.

Among sources showing increases were sales taxes which increased from $61,159,620 to $62,230,702; cigarettes $10,618,826 to $11,468,169; admissions $1,939,666 to $2,175,795 and malt beverages from $9,038,101 to $11,616,374.

Revenues holding about constant were wine, barrel beer and 3.2 per cent beer.

Day Nursery Will Reopen Wednesday

The day nursery for the care of pre-school age children of working mothers, which was closed recently because of the prevalence of colds, will open tomorrow. Action to open the nursery was taken at a meeting of the Day Nursery executive committee last night with the approval of Dr. John A. McNamara, a member of the committee. The nursery is open each day, Monday through Saturday, from 6 a. m. until 6 p. m. and is in charge of Mrs. Patricia Jackson. Completing the business session last night were reports of chairmen and committees.

450 Hear Foremen's Speaker Picture Civilian War Duties

A capacity crowd of 450 persons heard Ralph W. Carney, vice president and sales manager of the Coleman Lamp & Stove Co. of Wichita, Kans., speak at the annual foremen's fellowship dinner of the Marion Chamber of Commerce last night at the Masonic temple.

Speaking on "This Is America," Mr. Carney touched on two different but related subjects. One was the obligation of every civilian, including organized labor, to lay aside thoughts of personal gain until the war is over, and the other was the magnitude of the task that confronts America and her allies in clearing the Japs out of the huge empire they have seized in the Pacific.

Relating what his statements were not to his own opinion but those of thousands of persons to whom he had talked in years of travel over the country, Mr. Carney asserted some labor leaders, calling men off vital war jobs to win wage disputes, were deliberately putting their own personal interests and those of their unions ahead of the welfare of their country—"and those men actually are the enemies of the unions instead of their friends because they are drawing the fire of the American public—the fire of men like the anonymous spokesman on New Year's eve who is generally believed to have been none other than General Marshall, our nation's chief of staff." The anonymous spokesman had declared that recent strike and threatened strikes may have delayed the end of the war six months.

Points to Obligations

Mr. Carney dwelled at length on the obligation of all civilians to accept as much of a war sacrifice—although he said that is

Returned Missionaries Tell Of Months of Jap Internment

Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Weiss Recall Long Wait for Gripsholm Trip That Returned Them Back Home.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Peaceful days of study a Peiping, working in their chosen field, that of medical missionaries, and months spent in an internment camp as prisoners of war is the story of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Weiss, now safe in their homeland where they have been enjoying the comforts of the home of Mrs. Weiss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seiter of the Richland Apts. They left Monday morning for a visit with Dr. Weiss' mother, Mrs. Elise Weiss of near Houston, Texas, and with other relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. Weiss and their 18-months-old daughter, Elizabeth Ann, were among the 1,500 passengers arriving in New York on the Gripsholm early last month after spending more than four years in war-torn China.

"We were treated very well, considering that the country was in war and we were in occupied territory," Dr. and Mrs. Weiss said in response to a query regarding their treatment after the outbreak of the war between United States and Japan. "We were always treated with respect," Dr. Weiss added.

Unpleasantness Forgotten

Whatever of unpleasantness there was in connection with the months of confinement, the Weiss' are not remembering it, much less telling it, and now that they are reunited with their families, they can smile at many things that were said and done to keep up the morale of those dark days and the readjustments which had to be made when they became enemy aliens.

Dr. Weiss was able to carry on his work at the hospital after the declaration of war and until March 1942 when the institution was closed and all of the mission property and the Chinese churches connected with it were taken over by the Japanese. With others, Dr. and Mrs. Weiss were interned in the China Inland Mission Compound outside the city of Nanchang. Here they had lodging, a restricted area for exercises and could even go outside the compound. They read. Dr. Weiss gardened and Mrs. Weiss made baby clothes in anticipation of the birth of their child. They were allowed to keep a servant, their Chinese friends could come to see them, but at all times they were under a careful and thorough surveillance.

Dr. and Mrs. Weiss had permission to return home with the wife leaving an entertainment, first group of repatriates but "Registration Revue" was staged elected to stay until after the and a bit of the evening was a birth of their child. Here, with other refugees brought out of the interior, they were quartered in the Columbia Country club, and the only restriction to freedom was their being prohibited from attending public places of amusement. After several weeks all were ordered to register and given red arm bands with numbers to wear as means of identification. After a few weeks they were allowed to move, with other refugees, into private homes where they stayed until their internment on March 3.

Accustomed to War

Artillery fire was something they had grown accustomed to as well as destruction of cities and towns. "We are going back when the opportunity presents itself," Dr. and Mrs. Weiss said in response to an inquiry as to their future plans. "Why not, there will be a greater need than ever before for our people," the doctor said. As to their immediate plans, they have none except to visit their relatives and friends and become accustomed to living in a land where one's goings and comings are not restricted nor an accounting demanded.

Had Conveniences

Their new quarters were in the remains of the Great China University in the city of Shanghai. The buildings were in fair condition and the more than 1,000 internees, particularly the Americans, experienced a feeling of being at home — "there was American plumbing," Mrs. Weiss related. "There were the most wonderful hot and cold showers even though you had to walk some distance to reach them."

"There was always the hope of going home," the voyagers said, "but it was always going to be next week whenever there was any inquiry about leaving." The camp was organized under definite discipline of the Japanese and soon there was daily roll call, educational groups were organized, a working schedule was set up and there were entertainments and other recreational activities. Everyone, old and young alike, worked, and each had his or her definite part to do. Some gardened, others cooked, and those who were unable to do heavy work because of age or other circumstances, had jobs of cleaning rice or other labor requiring use of their hands. All put in at least five hours of active work in the camp program.

Talented Group

There was a great deal of talent in many fields among the internees, including teachers, doctors, lawyers, ministers and other professional men and women. Entertainments were bright spots on the camp calendar and those with talent along that line did a grand job of assembling programs and improvising music and shows. A "Gay 90's" show which opened with an overture, "The Prisoner's Song," was a highlight in the entertainment field and when it was definitely known that many of the internees

PRESIDENT NAMES 3 ON FAIR LABOR BOARD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—President Roosevelt named a three-man committee yesterday to investigate a dispute involving the fair employment practices committee, railway labor organizations and 15 southern carriers over the question of racial discrimination.

The members are: Judge Walter P. Story, Raleigh, N. C., chairman; Judge William H. Holly of the U. S. district court, Chicago, and Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland.

The railroads involved had declined to abide by an order of the FEPC for greater employment of Negroes and the agency referred the dispute to the President.

"Obviously," Mr. Roosevelt wrote in a letter to the committee members, "in such a mobilized structure as the transportation industry we cannot immediately attain perfect justice in terms of equal employment opportunities for all people.

"I am sure, however, that you agree with me that all Americans at this time should be anxious to see to it that no discriminations prevent the fullest use of our manpower in providing the strength essential to the major military offensives now planned. Indeed, hardly anything in America now seems so important as such a unity based upon justice as will make possible the best use of all our human resources in this year of supreme national effort."

Dog Owners Warned Of Approaching Deadline

Dog license sales are running ahead of last year's at the same time, but several thousand dog owners must visit the county auditor's office in the next two and a half weeks to escape penalties, officials warned today.

Sales to date total 728, about 200 ahead of the figure for the corresponding date a year ago. However, there are some 6,000 dogs in the county that will need licenses by Jan. 20, the last day for their owners to buy tags without penalty. The prices are $1 for male, $3 for unspayed female dogs and $10 for kennels.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . It helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it today!

IN OUR HUMBLE WAY WE HOPE TO GIVE "DISTINGUISHED SERVICE"

Our part in this fight is a small one—but one we try to carry off with gallantry: by getting your things dry cleaned as fast and as well as we can: by helping keep your costs down: and by carefully using all cleaning and tailoring materials which are also used for war production. WHY GOD PERMITS WAR!

Why does God permit war? Why does He permit cruelty, injustice, pain, starvation, sickness and death?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answers to these questions. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of any one. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as worldwide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants every one to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this notice a 9,000-word treatise. It is free. For your free copy, send your name and address to the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. H-518, Los Angeles, 4, Calif. Write promptly.—Adv.

'43 TO MAKE READY—'44 TO GO!

SETTING a new record of 725,000,000,000 ton miles in 1943, your railroads handled a volume of traffic exceeding anything in the history of transportation.

This volume was 80% greater than the previous wartime peak in 1918. It was 73% greater than the previous all-time peak.

This staggering transportation job handled by Erie and other American railroads was made possible by the day-by-day cooperation of the public, the shippers, the armed forces, and government agencies.

Ahead lies a bigger job of transportation because America is attacking

1943 was the year to get ready

1944 is the year to go!

With your continued helpful cooperation, Erie and other American railroads will keep 'em rolling until victory is won.

"Treat Them Right"

This means that the "other" kind of a store has a policy of not caring much if a customer ever comes back after they get one good sale out of them.

You can tell you are in a "Treat Them Right" store, because (1) their price tags are marked in plain figures, (2) prices are honest and merchandise is honest, (3) there is no "bait" display in windows or in newspaper advertising, (4) there is no "switching" to get the customer to buy higher priced goods than she intended buying, (5) there is no intensive selling—the customer is helped to select rather than importuned to buy, (6) there are none of the so-called "tricks of the trade" employed.

More in Schaffner's we run a "Treat Them Right" store. Ask any friend or neighbor who has ever traded here.

More Time Granted For Power Company Sale

The securities and exchange commission at Philadelphia has exempted the Manufacturers Trust Co. of New York from certain provisions of the holding company act pending completion of the company's sale of its common stock of the Marion-Reserve Power Co. to the Ohio Public Service Co. The Associated Press reported today.

It was explained that the New York bank previously had until Dec. 31 to dispose of the Marion-Reserve Power Co. stock under SEC rules, and that additional time was granted by the SEC's latest action to permit the bank to conclude the sale to the Ohio Public Service Co. The bank also obtained additional time to dispose of its share in the New England Public Service Co. and its common stock of the Eastern Minnesota Power Corp.

Defendants Accused of Acting as Nazi Agents To Incite Mutiny in U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Two [illegible] and 28 men were under [illegible] today in a widening [illegible] of what the justice [illegible] called a Nazi propa- [illegible] campaign to incite mutiny [illegible] armed forces and set up a [illegible] regime in this country.

The defendants, some of whom [illegible] named in a previous indict- [illegible] charging sedition, were ac- [illegible] by a federal grand jury of [illegible] with each other and [illegible] officials of the government [illegible] German reich and leaders [illegible] members of the Nazi party" [illegible]

[illegible] counsel, urge and [illegible] insubordination, disloyalty, [illegible] and refusal of duty by [illegible] of the military and [illegible] forces of the United States."

The defendants include George [illegible] Viereck, long a German [illegible] in this country, and already under sentence for violating the foreign agents' registration act; Joseph E. McWilliams, organizer of the Christian Mobilizers; Elizabeth Dilling, author of "The Red Network"; William Dudley Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts, under a 15-year sentence for violating the sedition act, and George E. Deatherage, organizer of the Knights of the White Camellia.

Lois De LaFayette Washburn of Chicago, described as organizer of the National Liberty party, is the second woman defendant.

Twenty-two of the defendants were named in an indictment returned a year ago, which justice department officials said still stands. The old indictment however does not allege an actual conspiracy in behalf of Nazi rule for the United States.

Attorney General Francis Biddle commented the department is continuing its investigation of "certain defendants" not named in the new charges, "as well as others not named in either indictment."

Conviction carried a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment, a fine of $10,000, or both.

Burial will be in Forest Glen cemetery. Friends may call at the home on Blaine avenue after 7:30 p. m. today until 10 a. m. Wednesday and at the funeral home until service time.

All Restrictions Lifted on Razor Manufacture

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — The war production board today authorized unlimited production of razors and razor blades.

The order revoked previous regulations which limited the manufacture of metal safety razors to orders for the armed forces, and lifted an absolute ban on production of straight razors and severe limitations on fabrication of safety razor blades.

The WPB said facilities needed for the manufacture cannot be adapted to other war production and that the metals required for razor production are no longer on the critical list.

PROHIBITION HEARINGS SET BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Bill Proposes Liquor Ban for Duration of War.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Bowing to demands of more than 100,000 individual petitioners for immediate legislative action, a house judiciary subcommittee will begin public hearings next week on national prohibition legislation.

Chairman Hobbs (D-Ala) said the hearings probably would start Wednesday, with prohibition advocates as the first witnesses.

The hearings will be on legislation introduced last March by Rep. Bryson (D-SC) to outlaw beverages containing more than one half of one per cent alcohol by volume, the prohibition to remain in effect until "the termination of demobilization" at the end of the war.

His professed purpose is "to reduce absenteeism, conserve manpower and speed production of materials necessary for the winning of the war."

A bitter fight is expected to develop over the proposal, which has strong house backing. Opponents contend it would be unfair to members of the armed forces to impose prohibition by statute at a time when they can not express their views in a referendum.

It Takes More Than A Law

STRIKES and threats of strikes at the climax of preparations for the climactic invasion of Europe have hurt national confidence far more than they have hurt war production. They have revived a renewed determination that work stoppages should not occur in wartime.

But to put that determination into effect takes more than another law inscribed in the statutes after a public airing of hotly conflicting opinions. The Smith-Connally act did not prevent the very thing that it is now proposed to prevent by passing some additional law.

The United States has urgent need to reassert its determination to do everything possible to back up the millions of men it has sent overseas. It does not need another law to grapple with the technicalities of the trial of strength it is engaged in, but a national resolution to put first things first—a national resolution to fulfill its obligation to its fighting forces.

President Roosevelt can give vocal expression to such a resolution. He can declare and obtain from congress a concurrent resolution that for the duration of the war strikes are against public policy. If someone objects that this has been done, in effect, before, then it can be pointed out that it is worth doing again to refresh public realization of the civilian obligation to the armed forces.

A no-strike pledge by unionists is worth less than a resolution by government that strikes are intolerable.

Thereafter, a stoppage of work would not be an incident in the handling of labor relations during wartime; it would be an overt act against the national interest, to be considered on the grounds of morality. No amount of evasive legality, slick conniving and double-talk could make it anything else. Labor leaders who control the acts of their followers and followers who recognize no control by anyone would have to decide whether or not they wanted to do something which the chief executive and congress had declared to be against the national interest. The few who thereafter would go ahead could be dealt with more easily than the many now tempted to prove they can do as much as John Lewis did and get away with it.

Cities, Hostages of Air Power

CLAIMS of destruction in Berlin now have risen to three-fourths of the city's vast area. While the claims may be too high, no doubt remains that air power can make large cities liabilities in wartime. Berlin, like Warsaw, Belgrade, London and Moscow, has been a hostage of aerial bombing.

In time, the marks of damage will be concealed by new buildings. In the case of London, the British seem to feel the destruction of some sections of that old city will prove eventually to be of general benefit, because systematic reconstruction will be an improvement.

But systematic reconstruction raises the question whether planning commissions will not be forced to make great concessions to the demonstrations of air power which this war has staged. It is possible that in the future all city planning conducted realistically will take into consideration something besides convenience and beauty.

The war will have shown that sound defense demands more than strong armies, navies and points of strength of merely military importance. Industrial installations ideally would have to be scattered at the perimeter of population centers. Public buildings would need to be separated more widely. Dwelling areas, themselves, would need to be planned with a view to fire hazards and the effect of high explosions. Fireproof construction would be more important than before. There are literally dozens of new considerations raised by the ability of airplanes to wreak destruction on cities.

Those already in existence and untouched by war cannot be expected to do anything about it, but the Berlin of the future, if there is to be one, surely will be planned in the light of the fact that the Berlin of the past could be ruined by a weapon which was only approaching its potentialities at the time.

So They Say—

If we had sufficient forces to put 1,000 planes in the air every two days, we could beat Germany long before June. But we cannot count on it. We must count on a land invasion.—Brig. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, 8th Air Force.

The sword will not be sheathed until the leaders of the cursed Fascist band answer with their heads for their crimes against humanity.—Pravda, Moscow newspaper.

The year just ahead will see a rising psychology in favor of the efficiently operated small business enterprise.—Henry H. Heimann, National Association of Credit Men officer.

Once we break the German lines, once we cause a disorderly retreat on any front, the German armies on all fronts will collapse. But we have still to break the lines.—Sir Gerald Campbell, British minister to the U. S.

Our industry and military power has been working incessantly to make a weapon which will pay back that debt of death and horror. The hour of reprisal is approaching.—Berlin radio.

It has been said that the interests of management and labor are the same. The important thing is that it is to the interest of each if the other does well.—Moses Shapiro, WLB arbitrator.

News Behind the News

Government Efforts To Be "Slick" Blamed for Most of Trouble in Rail Strike Threat.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Mr. Roosevelt appears more than the usual victim of circumstances in handling the railroad strike and settlement.

One reason is that most of the government action was directed into manipulative channels of his personality, he thinks, by Mr. Hyde Park advisers.

Most important observers in the capital, and Anne Rosenberg, who made a fine showing in New York as labor adviser to large organizations including Macy's department store, agree she was not sitting squarely in on what the President and his "little labor cabinet" of Bill Green, Fanny Perkins et al.

It was Mrs. Rosenberg who helped War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes draft the original call to the railroad brotherhoods to come in and negotiate, and while she did not appear in the meetings, much of the government strategy can be attributed to her.

Bitterness

The brotherhood leaders feel emotionally beaten up by their experiences with the government. Much bitterness will long lie beneath their skins for several detailed reasons which I will outline later.

But their ire must be considerably blunted by the financial settlement the government granted. Mr. Roosevelt in effect broke his own little steel formula—again.

His emergency board had offered a four cent increase which was supposed to be founded on that formula. But in the end he gave the operating employes what will amount to at least 11 cents, about two cents of which is concealed in one week's vacation with pay.

The press accounts all called the increase nine cents, adding the four cents regular increase and five cents overtime which was evident in the announcements, but the vacation is figured by experts to add two cents more per hour for a more accurate total of 11 cents.

But there are hidden tricks in it. The 15 non-operating brotherhoods who refused to sign the agreement, after operating brotherhoods had accepted the proposition, went to see Mobilizer Byrnes and asked what a provision in it meant—one which seemed to say vaguely railroad workers could get no more increases for the duration of the war. Mr. Byrnes told them that was exactly what it meant.

Unions Divided

The brotherhood leaders who had signed earlier, considered the provision "unimportant" (they said) apparently reserving the right to contest Mr. Byrnes' interpretation later if prices go much higher. But the leaders who had not signed implied their colleagues had been deceived by the government.

This was only the last of a series of similar occurrences through which the government split the brotherhoods right down the middle, making them perhaps easier to handle, but leaving them with the conviction they had been gypped one way or another.

At the outset of the negotiations, Mr. Roosevelt has seemed fully amenable to much of their demands, even suggesting in one private conference that any few cent of pay increase around the government formula could be handled by adjusting overtime one way or another.

But when this agreement came to fruition, they found it required them to accept "interpretations" of law by the administration, meaning Mr. Byrnes. They felt they would be on and thereby to practically anything Mr. Byrnes wanted.

Say Settlement Near

That started the trouble which led to the strike call in the first place, a trouble which brotherhood officials say could have been settled in 24 hours at any time in the last 30 days if the government had not continuously complicated its proposals with these little slick paragraphs here and there.

The brotherhoods certainly did not wish to strike. They knew a strike would be unpopular, indeed, could not be carried out in the face of war necessities. But they wanted to be the ones to call off their threat.

Instead, the government seized the roads without telling them or offering them a chance to give in. They had not broken off negotiations.

The brotherhood chiefs lay around the Hamilton Hotel here from the Thursday before, until 24 hours after the seizure without receiving word of the coming action, or invitation to negotiate. Then on Tuesday, Brigadier General Somervell called around to talk about government operation.

The operation itself was a legal technicality, nothing more. The government merely notified the roads they were under government operation. Not a single soldier or government official went anywhere on any railroad property.

The men received their paychecks signed by the companies as usual. So will stockholders. There was no visible or physical seizure anywhere.

Only "Legal Advice"

In effect then, the seizure was only a legal device to prevent a strike which the unions did not intend to stage anyway.

The charge has been made in congress that Mr. Roosevelt seized them because he wanted to get control and keep it. This cannot be true. When this administration wants to seize anything, it starts a publicity campaign against private operation. All administration publicity has praised private wartime operation.

Furthermore, he would not have placed the management in the war department, but probably in one of the New Deal bureaus if he wanted to retain control. Mr. Roosevelt was here in the last war, saw what a bad job the government did with operation then has always talked in press conferences against government operation.

But this action presented him to the public in an unusual, new light as a strong manager if not a disciplinarian of the labor unions—in fact, the strongest and best managed union of all. It rather established a new character

Farm Problem—No. 1

Food Subsidies Battle

This is one of a series of articles on the problems of the nation's farm economy.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—When the farm lobby opposes subsidies to farmers and representatives of city folks favor 'em, the farm problem ain't what it used to be.

Before the war came along to boost food demands to all-time levels, American farmers produced more than consumers could buy. Huge crop surpluses drove farm prices down to what the American Farm Bureau Federation and other advocates of government help for the farm, termed "bankruptcy levels."

For many years that over-production or under-consumption as some prefer to call it, was the No. 1 farm problem. A major effort by congress to solve it was the payment of subsidies to farmers for reducing acreage combined with a program of soil conservation.

The situation now is said apparently for the duration of the war—is reversed. Food production has been the largest on our history, but it hasn't been large enough to meet demands. Over-consumption has replaced under-consumption.

Want More in '44

The 1944 aims of the war food administration are to induce farmers grow even more food, to assure them of profitable returns, and at the same time to prevent high food prices putting too heavy a burden on consumers and possibly leading to ruinous inflation.

How to accomplish those aims? That's the current farm problem and around it whirls a political fight over food price subsidies. The administration favors increasing its $800,000,000 a year food subsidy program to spur maximum production while holding down costs to consumers by keeping ceilings on food prices.

Subsidy supporters say the addition of payments will lead to a cycle of alternate farm wage increases by farmers and food processors and of counter-demands by labor for wage increases to offset higher prices. Spiraling prices and wages, they contend, would eventually wreck the government's living-cost-control program and bring about disastrous inflation.

President Roosevelt says "the spending of small sums (through subsidies) makes possible avoiding the pyramiding of price increases all down the line."

Leading opponents of the subsidy program include members of congress from rural districts, officials of the National Grange and American Farm Bureau Federation and a number of food processors and distributors. They argue that subsidies tend to inflation by increasing a staggering national debt, lead to political control of agriculture, and put the national price structure out of balance.

Opponent's Other Arguments.

Food prices, they say, can be raised to take care of production costs without working a hardship on consumers or causing serious inflation. They assert that the income of industrial workers has increased much faster than food prices, and that subsidies are just another way of increasing the purchasing power of the public, thus increasing the peril of inflation.

Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, says "food prices are only 7 per cent above the 1929 level while individual workers' income is up 59 per cent."

Subsidy advocates answer that millions of consumers have had little or no income gains from the war production boom. "Fixed income" people are already badly pinched, they say, by high food prices and heavy taxes. Additional substantial increases in food prices will bring economic disaster to the fixed-income groups, they contend.

Subsidy foes insist high-income consumers can afford to pay more for food and that low-income groups can be protected by introduction of a food stamp plan.

The battle is expected to continue through the election year. With Republicans counting heavily on the "farm revolt" to help oust the New Deal in 1944, the farm income question is tabbed as a hot issue.

Today and Tomorrow

Big Price in Lives Seen If Strikes Delay End of War Only Few Days.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT would have been better, no doubt, if the remarks about strikes prolonging the war had first been made directly to the labor leaders face to face rather than broadcast anonymously. I was present when the remarks were made, and I have no doubt myself that if the leaders had had a chance to hear not only the broad conclusion but had also been able to ask questions and had the matter thoroughly explained to them, they would see the point.

It is evident from what the labor leaders have said in reply that they honestly do not understand how strikes and the threat of strikes may prolong the war. When they do understand it, they will not quibble over whether the effect has been to prolong the war six months, six weeks or even six days.

While the speaker was making his remarks, I recalled an incident which after 25 years is still a terrible reminder of how tragic can be the effect of the thoughtlessness of a civilian upon the lives of soldiers. I was then an intelligence officer attached to Col. House's mission in Paris, which was arranging the armistice of 1918.

Price of an Extra Day

The Germans were ready to surrender but there had to be formal agreement by the Allies before the terms could be submitted to the Germans. On the front tremendous battles were raging, and each day of battle was costing thousands of casualties. One of the principal delegates, not British or French, had to postpone his departure for Paris by 24 hours. I forgot the exact reason if I ever knew it; whatever the reason, it had to do with domestic affairs in his country. As a result the armistice came one day later than it might have come.

Not long after the armistice my duties took me away from Paris to what had been the American sector of the western front. One day I stopped at an American cemetery out there, and on some 20 or 30 graves there were markers showing that the soldiers who were buried there had fallen on the very morning of the delayed armistice.

That is what time costs in war, and that is why it is the sacred duty of every civilian to do nothing, however important or righteous he may feel about it, which does actually or could possibly distract, delay, overburden the leaders and commanders charged with the responsibilities of pushing the war to its conclusion.

The man who made the remarks on New Year's Eve knows more about the awful reality of war, and of this war, than any living American. Why is he so profoundly convinced that these evidences of division and confusion on the home front may have such a tragic effect?

To appreciate that we must realize the position of the enemy. Germany, as Hitler himself now admits, cannot win the war. The question which haunts the people of the Axis countries is which of these two hideous alternatives should they take: Is it more dangerous to face the Allied bombardment and invasion of the next six or eight months or to face the firing squads and torture chambers of the Nazi Gestapo?

Choice of Dangers

The danger of the Gestapo is imminent, direct, personal: the danger from the Allied arms, though in the end it will be overwhelming, is still such that the individual might hope somehow to escape it and survive. That is what keeps the Axis people going.

What could make the Axis peoples continue to believe that die-hard resistance would bring a negotiated peace" Clearly, evidence of war weariness in the Allied countries and of political confusion among them. If they believed, whether it was true or not, that this country was faced with great strikes, with a legislative revolt against the President, with an election which might alter the war policy of the United States, that belief would be a powerful incentive to hold on through 1944.

It follows that the American ci-

Uncle Sam Lost

Bill Dwyer, Friend of Ours, Proved He Could Spend Dough Faster Than the Mint Made It.

By DAMON RUNYON

THEY are off at Tropical Park, the race course on the edge of the brooding Everglades, down in Dade county, Fla.

When I think of the name of Tropical Park I always think of Bill Dwyer, Bill built Tropical. In his heyday he was one of the fabulous figures of the land and a money spender of astounding speed and endurance.

In a hypothetical contest against the United States mint one day to determine whether the mint could make money faster than Bill could spend it, or vice versa, the mint lost. It claimed a foul that was not allowed, on the ground Bill gave away more money than he actually spent.

A line of applicants for money was always waiting in front of his offices in New York in his big days. He passed out currency as if it was nothing more than advertising matter. He tossed off millions, but his spending was not that of the profligate. It was more the careless gesture of a potentate distributing largess from an inexhaustible store. Money simply meant nothing to Bill Dwyer. Tropical Park was an incident in the saga of his spending.

HE was a theater usher in his youth, I believe. Along in the '20's, the demands of our honest citizens for alcoholic stimulant influenced Bill (I trust I put this tactfully) to embark in the liquor import trade.

A big, bluff, good-looking, good-natured Irishman, well educated, well spoken, and of the most courtly manners, Bill became famed as the great diplomat of a hard and desperate game. He was trusted by all factions and often sat as a court of one in arbitrating disputes. He must have been a millionaire several times over at one stage. He was interested in sport and introduced professional ice hockey and professional football to New York. Either would have kept him rich had he been able to hang on to the profits.

He bred and raced horses, owned tracks in Canada and opened Rockingham. He was fooling with an unsuccessful track in northern Florida, outside Jacksonville, when he got the idea of installing a second track in Dade county, where Joe Widener had a monopoly on the game of Hialeah with 50-odd racing dates across the heart of what he used to call the "season," meaning the time when the social lugs of Palm Beach and Miami Beach were "in residence" in their winter villas.

NATURALLY, Joe Widener did not want a second track in Dade county. He had plenty of weight and could defeat such a scheme. Bill Dwyer resorted to a little diplomacy and salve. He gave a dinner for Widener that became historic. As I remember, Bill was not supposed to be the host. Someone else had that distinction, but he paid the tab, which I have heard was around $35,000. It was pitched in a big dining hall high up in the Biltmore hotel, and the guests were the headliners of society and the turf.

They had real horses around the hall for racing atmosphere. Bill's deftest touch was the bringing on of one of Widener's favorite steeds, carefully spotted. They had to take the horses to the banquet floor in elevators.

You could scarcely blame Widener if his chilliness toward a second track in Dade abated after this hospitality, especially as Bill said he would run only before and after Hialeah, though what was probably in his mind was cutting in on the latter dates after he got going.

HE had an office in the club house of the little plant he built in the mucklands beyond Coral Gables and he was his own parimutuels best customer. When the time arrived that Bill needed money he went to those who had money and presently "pieces" of Tropical were scattered around among persons whose connections caused the Florida racing authorities somewhat belatedly to raise their brows—a few years belatedly.

When they all sold out to higher class folks a couple of years ago, I understand Bill was left with only about 13 per cent. He may still have it for all I know to the contrary. I hope so. I am sure Bill never harmed anyone. His greatest error in life was in never learning one word—"No."

Your Income Tax

1.—OUR INCOME TAX SYSTEM

Your income tax—including both the regular income tax and the temporary wartime victory tax—is a major part of the Federal Government's method of paying for the war and all other governmental costs.

These taxes are figured as a percentage of your income, after deducting various exemptions, credits, and deductions. They are based on your taxable income from all sources, including wages, salaries, bonuses, commissions, business profits, dividends, interest, rent, and royalties.

The regular individual income tax on 1943 income including a so-called "normal tax" of 6 per cent and also a "surtax" which begins at 13 per cent and increases by steps (frequently called "brackets") to successively higher percentages for larger amounts of income.

The victory tax is also an income tax, but is only for the duration of the war, and somewhat different deductions, exemptions, and credits are granted than are allowable for the regular income tax. The victory tax is computed at 5 per cent, but an automatic credit (formerly called a "post-war credit") reduces the tax by one-fourth or more, depending on whether you are married or single and on now many dependents you support.

These are the taxes for which an annual tax "return" must be filed on or before March 15, 1944.

The requirements for filing these returns has not been altered by the "pay-as-you-go" collection system which was installed last year.

Under the pay-as-you-go system, part or all of an individual's income taxes—both regular income and victory taxes—was withheld from his wages during 1943 and turned over to the Treasury by employers. In the case of individuals who were not kept substantially paid up by the wage withholding, additional payments were required on the basis of "declarations" of estimated tax.

However, since both of these types of payments were only approximate, it is still necessary after the end of the year 1943 to file a "return"—not later than March 15—in order to determine the amount of the correct tax. In connection with this return, you will compare the correct amount of your tax and the actual amount of your payments. If your payments were less than the correct tax, you will pay the difference. If your payments were more than the correct tax, you will be entitled to a refund or credit.

Because we are still in the transition period of "pay-as-you-go" there will have to be an additional chore in this return. When the plan started, you already owed your 1942 tax. To relieve you of paying both years' taxes in one year, Congress decided to forgive a part of one year's tax. Therefore, most taxpayers will have to figure how much of that year's tax was not forgiven and make a payment.

The 1943 returns are due not later than March 15, 1944, but taxpayers will find it in the best interests of both themselves and their Government to file as early as possible.

OHIO 37TH

Each enemy soldier seems to have one, presented when relatives or friends hold a banquet for him before he goes into military service. But they don't collect the unprecedented Japanese loot. They bury it, sometimes with the individuals.

Prepare To Land

Battlewise and toughened from New Georgia operations, the men from a few miles out in the waters of Empress bay, caught their first glimpse of Bougainville island where the Marines had established a beachhead only a few days before.

Their troopship had been moving under an alarm denoting attack for six hours. Enemy reconnaissance planes had spotted the convoy under the light of a full tropical moon the night before and enemy bombers had attacked all night long. Three had been shot down by anti-aircraft gunners. A rumor spread were had been casualties and damage on one U. S. warship.

Troops gathered at the rail, watching for an expected morning air attack. A staff officer called them together and informed them all it was possible to reveal about the situation. He said the heaviest concentration of Japanese was to the south of a beachhead and that in order to attack from the air the Japanese would have to send planes from Bagul or use a few seaplanes in the area.

"All troops go to their quarters and prepare to debark," came the order over the public address system.

The men were sent into the holds by their sergeants. They rolled their packs, smoked and made last minute preparations. Some cleaned rifles or sub machine guns. It was a tense moment. If the enemy were to make an air attack to resist a landing now was the time.

"I wonder how Ellie and the kids are doing now," said a youthful soldier who had never seen the twins born to his wife while he was overseas.

Talk of Home

They talked of home, steaks, ice cream, pie and cake. Some speculated on the chance of being sent to New Zealand or Australia after the Bougainville campaign. They all were restless. The loud speaker was issuing commands to lower landing boats, clear decks and man battle stations. Then came the order to debark. A murmur, blended with signs of relief, ran around the hold.

The men moved to the rail and climbed down the landing nets quickly and expertly. As soon as one barge started for the shore an empty one took its place. The landing was made safely and the dreaded enemy air attack did not develop. The troops took their positions and life on Bougainville had started.

The engineers were praised highly by the men for their work on the island.

Men who had been pipe fitters, lawyers, plumbers, accountants and scores of other business or professional men, now had been soldiers for what seemed a long time.

Kenton Captain

Soldiers in the division grin when alarms have turned out to be merely night sounds. Staff Sergeant James G. Smith (address not given), told what happened to him, Captain Reginald S. Jackson of Kenton, O., and Master Sergeant Henry Brandt of Lakewood, O.

The men were dozing off when a rattle in the underbrush along a trail startled them into wakefulness. Smith asked Capt. Jackson in a whisper whether he heard anything. Jackson said he had and Brandt also had heard it. The three armed themselves, crawled into the trail and listened for a repetition of the noise. It came again—a stealthy rustling in the underbrush off to the left.

"Moving forward," Smith said, "I bumped into a figure crouched in the darkness.

"'It's me,' whispered Brandt, and I sat back on my haunches and strained my eyes peering into the darkness. There we sat, the three of us, in the middle of a jungle trail in Bougainville, searching for we knew not what. Testing the old proverb, I placed my hand in front of my face. I couldn't see it. We sat quietly for five or ten minutes, but the noise-maker wouldn't do his stuff.

"Finally I rose to my feet. 'To hell with him,' I said. 'As dark as it is, he's having just as much trouble finding us as we are finding him. I'm going back to bed'."

Decide on Cause

The following morning the three decided the noise was made by a monkey or a wombat, an opossum-like creature, crawling through underbrush.

Jackson, who related a story of how the cook had discovered a skeleton figure, apparently a Jap, just as the intruder was about to plunge a knife into a sleeping soldier, declared that "every land crab's or other jungle creature's movements — even the water which drips interminably from the foliage—sounded like a Jap stealing through the underbrush."

After the cook's discovery those who had positions on the trails were particularly jittery, Jackson said, because after dark the Japs follows trails to minimize the noise of his advance. It was a relief, Jackson said when "Washing Machine Charley" came over at 4 a. m.

THOMAS CLARY OF MANSFIELD DIES

Widely Known Former Marion Resident Stricken.

Thomas Clary, 74, former resident of Marion, and widely known among Ohio sportsmen, died Sunday at General hospital in Mansfield, after a brief illness.

A native of Scotland, where he was born April 25, 1869, he operated a blacksmith shop here for many years. Later he was made game superintendent at Indian Lake by Governor Vic Donahey, a position he held for a number of years.

He managed the Court hotel at Mansfield and for the last 20 years was connected with the Yuncker Bros. sports goods store in Mansfield.

Funeral services will be conducted at St. Peter's Catholic church in Mansfield. Saturday at 9:30 a. m. with Monsignor R. C. Goebel as the celebrant. Burial will be in St. Mary Catholic cemetery here. The body is at the Geiger funeral home in Mansfield.

SAIDOR BEACHHEADS ARE MADE SECURE

ABOARD A UNITED STATES NAVY LANDING SHIP OFF SAIDOR, NEW GUINEA, Jan. 3—(Delayed)—Troops from Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's sixth army have achieved their primary objective in securing the entire Saidor area, including the emergency landing strip.

They have set up coastal defenses and anti-aircraft batteries. Their patrols are working up the coast towards Madang and down the coast in the direction of Sio in search of Japanese.

Along the beach there are sandbagged AA posts. In from the beach roads hacked through by bulldozers already are carrying a heavy traffic in army trucks, tractors and jeeps. Even medical units have their ambulances ashore.

impossible—as the men in the fighting fronts, and he declared workers have no more right to throw down their tools than soldiers to discard their weapons.

He spoke critically of greedy management as well as selfish labor, but added that management couldn't get away with much in this war because of the stiff taxes imposed by the government—taxes which he said are causing many substantial businesses to take heavy losses and leaving them without enough funds to convert back to civilian production after the war.

He described American economy as having three legs—agriculture, business and labor—and said if any one of the three or any group among them put profits ahead of their obligation to help win the war, the nation's war effort would suffer sharply.

Gigantic Task Pictured

Turning then to a study of the task that lies ahead in defeating Japan, he displayed a huge map of the Pacific, told of the immense natural wealth of the area Japan has conquered, rich in manpower as well as resources, described the elaborate fortifications the Japs hold, and told what a terrific price we have paid to make a comparatively small dent in the enemy's holdings in two years' time. "I don't want you to think I believe we can't defeat the Japs, but I want you to see the full size of the job before us," he declared. Pointing out that a high Japanese spokesman had said early in the war that Japan was willing to expend 10 million men to seize and hold its gains, Mr. Carney pointed out that even at a ratio of 5 to 1 America and her allies might have to spend two million lives to subdue Japan. Citing the experience at Tarawa, he declared that planes and naval bombardment can't do the job alone—troops must be landed and the Japs must be dug out of their foxholes.

Mr. Carney was introduced by Frank M. Foster, president of the Chamber. Mr. Carney recently spoke at the annual dinner of the Chamber at the Scioto Ordnance Plant cafeteria.

H. J. Barnhart Heads City School Board for Sixteenth Year

Harry J. Barnhart was elected president for the sixteenth year and Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr. took over his duties as a member of the Marion City Board of Education at the board's first meeting of the new year, Monday afternoon at the school administration building.

J. D. Torrance, clerk, administered the oath to Dr. Brickley, who succeeds Dr. R. T. Morgan, a member of the board for the last eight years. Dr. Morgan, who served two terms, was not a candidate for reelection.

Reelected with Mr. Barnhart were Dr. F. L. Thomas, vice president and Mr. Torrance, clerk.

Plans for the year were discussed. Appropriations for the calendar year were presented by Clerk Torrance and approved by the board. The county budget commission's certified estimate of income for 1944 is $570,515.73, which includes $488,322.09 for general fund operations and $81,496.34 for debt service. According to the budget set up by the board for school operation, the appropriation for the general fund is $484,649.41, debt service $68,580, which with other items including maintenance totals $553,966.71 for all appropriations. Of this amount $381,314.81 or 78½ per cent, is budgeted for personal services which includes $23,861.39 in teachers' salaries. According to figures the board has an unappropriated balance of a trifle more than $3,000.

Following a discussion the board voted to renew the insurance on school properties with extended coverage to include all kinds of damages resulting from tornadoes and other disasters.

Preceding the organization of the new board a meeting of the old board was held to close the year's business.

Mrs. Edna May Hittenrauch, 59, of 622 East Church street, widow of Carl Frederick Hittenrauch, died at 1 a. m. today at the City hospital. She had been ill one year.

Mrs. Hittenrauch was born Feb. 12, 1884 in Marion county to David and Sarah Morgenthaler Attig, natives of Marion county, and had spent practically all her life in Marion and vicinity. Her husband died Jan. 23, 1938.

Mrs. Hittenrauch was a member of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church, the Nika Sunday school class and was vice president of Harmonie guild of the church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home on East Center street with Rev. A. H. Ahrens, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church officiating. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Wednesday until the funeral hour.

CHARGES CIVILIAN NEEDS ARE IGNORED

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4—N. A. Zonarich, international president of the CIO-Aluminum Workers of America, today charged the war production board with ignoring civilian needs and possible future military needs in closing a number of aluminum plants in the nation.

Zonarich, noting that there has been no manufacture of aluminum cooking utensils, power transmission lines and equipment, aluminum foil and other peacetime civilian necessities since before the war began, said in a statement,

"A proper stockpile of aluminum should be built up now that it is possible and feasible. The President and other high officials tell us that the European war is far from won. We cannot tell when there may be a sudden change in requirements."

He suggested a committee composed of management, labor and government be set up to make decisions as to which plants ought to be shut down.

While big aluminum plants at Badin, N. C., Alcoa, Tenn., and Massena, N. Y., are being shut down, Zonarich declared, the WPB is purchasing aluminum from a plant in Canada financed by the United States government.

SEN. GLASS IS 86

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who first came to congress in 1901 and whose service there has been interrupted only by two years as secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, reached his 86th milestone today and viewed it as "just another birthday he preferred to forget."

Couldn't Spoil Chicken Dinner

By The Associated Press

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Sgt. Lawrence E. Joiner, Hopkinsville, Ky., and his anti-aircraft crew were eating a chicken dinner.

German bombers came into view. Joiner's crew let loose with a barrage that knocked one plane down and drove the others off. They were back at their plate before the chicken got cold.

TREASURY TO ISSUE TAX REFUND BONDS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — The treasury outlined procedure today for issuance of an estimated $1,700,000,000 in "excess profits tax refund bonds" intended to give corporations ready access to cash for post-war reconversion.

Although non-interest bearing and non-transferable for the duration, the securities will become fully negotiable at the end of hostilities, thus permitting business concerns to pledge them as security for loans.

The bonds will be issued to corporations certified by the internal revenue bureau as having made excess profits tax payments. The 1942 revenue act provided for a post-war refund of 10 per cent of such payments made in each wartime taxable year after Dec. 31, 1941, and the bonds are intended as evidence of the credits thus established.

EARL R. KYLER, FORMERLY OF MARION, STRICKEN

Burial Service Held Here After Rites at Columbus.

Earl Robert Kyler, 63, of Columbus, production manager for the International Stacey Corp. for the last five years, died in Mt. Carmel hospital Friday morning after a brief illness. He was a native of Marion. The body was brought here for burial yesterday.

Born April 27, 1881 in Marion, he was a son of John Kyler and Ellen Parlette Kyler. Before going to Columbus he was employed in Akron.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4 — The Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland today announced reappointment of George C. Brainard, president of the General Fireproofing Co. of Youngstown, O., as chairman of its board of directors.

The bank also reported reappointment of Reynold E. Kinges, president of the Columbus, (O.) Auto Parts Co. as deputy chairman.

B. G. Huntington, president of the Huntington National Bank of Columbus, continues as representative of the fourth federal reserve district on the federal advisory council.

Workers Stay on Job as Steel Contracts Expire

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4—Collective bargaining contracts between the CIO-United Steelworkers of America and six subsidiaries of U. S. Steel Corp. employing 200,000 persons expired at midnight last night.

With but one exception, all units operated today as union members obeyed CIO President Philip Murray's instructions to stay on the job while contract negotiations continue.

At the Dunore, Pa., plant of American Steel & Wire Co. 860 men were idle in a protest over a tonnage rate limitation.

Sweden has a "silent traffic" law which prohibits the blowing of automobile horns in cities except in emergencies.

BERLIN RADIO DENIES NAZI FALL IN BULGARIA

Turkey Sources Say Collapse Is Near.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 4 — While the Berlin radio dismissed today as "inventions" reports that the pro-German government of Bulgaria had been overthrown, dispatches from Turkey said the belief persisted there that Premier Dobri Bojilov's cabinet was on the verge of collapse if it has not actually fallen.

The exact situation in Bulgaria, however, Istanbul advices said, was obscured by continued interruption of normal means of communication with Sofia.

Telephone and telegraph communication between Bulgaria and Turkey was broken off suddenly yesterday without explanation.

The Istanbul advices said it was freely predicted popular movements in both Bulgaria and Rumania might attempt organized revolts against the Germans within the next two weeks if the Russian southwestward advance continues.

Both Bulgarians and Rumanians were said to be anticipating an allied landing somewhere along the Adriatic coast simultaneously with the expected Soviet breakthrough from the east.

MURRAY ASKS STEEL FOR CIVILIAN NEEDS

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4—So far as talk about steel strikes is concerned, says Philip Murray, CIO president, the industry now is turning out more than the war effort can use and the excess capacity should be turned immediately into essential civilian goods.

"Can I count on your help?" the union leader asked in a telegram he sent last night to WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson with a copy to Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

Murray said he knew of at least 44 open hearth and electric steel furnaces now out of production with a total capacity of 87,000 tons weekly, or enough steel for twenty 12,000-ton cruisers or 12 new Victory ships."

Murray declared that a promise by an all-time production record of more than 90 million tons in 1943 had been kept.

Turning to last week's remarks by an unnamed high authority in Washington that threatened steel and railroad strikes might prolong the European war because of psychological use of the threat by German propagandists, Murray declared:

"There must be little 'psychological comfort' for the enemy in this amazing (production) record, when our bombers fly over Europe they drop steel encased bombs and not psychology."

Relative of Marion Co. Residents Taken by Death

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McKee of Elm street, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Speece of Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Irvin Speece of near Galion have returned after being called to Youngstown Thursday to attend the funeral of a brother-in-law, Earl Burns, 34, who died in the hospital there on Dec. 28, after a seven-week illness.

Mr. Burns is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Domer Burns and four children by a previous marriage, Staff Sgt. Linus H. Burns, Johnson Field, N. Carolina; Roy V. Burns, Newport, R. I.; Carl O. Burns of Youngstown, Mrs. Robert Noel of Thoroughfare, N. J. Two brother, Arthur of Youngstown and Cpl. Lester of Goldsboro, N. C. and a sister, Mrs. Charles Owens of New Albany, Ind., also survive. His first wife, Miss Ida May Speece of Kirkpatrick preceded him in death in 1928.

American League President Looks at Prospects for '44

By WILLIAM HARRIDGE
(President of American Baseball League)
By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 Baseball [illegible] problem, as the game approaches the 1944 [illegible] and I am confident the sport will meet [illegible] successfully as it has met many others since baseball first [illegible] wartime season.

About 25 years ago, baseball was preparing for another war-time season—that of 1918 between World War I. A check of the rosters at that time discloses that the eight American league clubs used 250 players under contract—10 fewer than the league now has on its reserve lists for the 1944 season.

We know that scores of players, many of them stars, will join the armed forces between now and opening day next April. But our league owners are confident that, despite these anticipated departures, their clubs will be able to field teams and again do a good job of providing entertainment and relaxation.

The American league now has approximately 190 of its players in the armed forces—and they are part of a legion which is baseball's biggest booster. During the 1942 and 1943 seasons, baseball went to our fighting men all over the world via radio and the American league motion pictures.

Only recently the newest American league movie — 'The World Series of 1943' has gone to our boys in every theater of war.

In the near future, millions of boys will see the picturization of the 1943 fall classic between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals. From the demand for this new movie we know the soldiers, sailors and marines want baseball to go on.

Some 600,000 of those servicemen watched our teams in 1943 as guests of our eight American league clubs. The past season saw almost 4,000,000 other fans attend American league games—a total only slightly under a banner 1942 season attendance. The world series raised more than $308,000 for war charities.

Attendance in 1943 was all the more remarkable when it is remembered that the American league was not favored with a close pennant race and, during the early part of the season, incurred the worst stretch of inclement weather in the league's history.

Major league teams again will train at northern bases. This is just one of many wartime adjustments necessary—all of which are incidental to the game's only aim—keep baseball alive so long as it is in line with our country's only objective — the winning of this war.

(This is the first of a series, written exclusively for The Associated Press by sports leaders, in which prospects for 1944 are discussed.)

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—The subject hasn't been fully explored yet, but it's possible that baseball's post-war expansion program will help solve the most serious problem that will come up when the "planning" committee meets sometime within the next couple of weeks. That is what to do with athletes returning from the war. Already a dozen or more have been discharged and they'll be coming back with a rush once the fighting stops.

Many of them won't be able to play big-league ball again, but if baseball does a lot of promoting in minor league, semi-pro, college and school territory there ought to be jobs for everybody. It looks like a "natural" for such men as Hank Greenberg, Luke Appling, Hugh Mulcahy and, of course, Zeke Bonura. Zeke might even promote a camel race between games of a doubleheader.

Safety In No Numbers—Lowpoint High school in Illinois managed to play baseball last fall even though there are only eight boys in school . . . The boys wanted to play in their league and M. B. Neece, school principal and coach, was willing, so they just revised the rules to fit the conditions and went ahead to win five out of eight games. . . The same eight boys from the basketball team now and Coach Neece says, "They are one of the finest groups of boys I have ever had the pleasure of working with," and probably the most adaptable, too.

Sooners Later—Bennie Owen, intramural sports director and former football coach at Oklahoma U., saved up his card gas this fall for one good hunting trip, and Bennie really likes to hunt. . . He lost an arm in a shooting accident years ago but learned to handle a light shotgun with one arm and hasn't missed a season since. But this year, after that careful preparation, he reached the scene of the hunt and found he had left his gun at home. . . . At that, Owen didn't fare any worse than Athletic Director Dale Arbuckle, who bagged his limit of quail one day only to discover when he reached home that he didn't have a feather to show. All the birds had dropped out through a hole in his hunting coat pocket.

Service Dept.—The Camp Davis, N. C., basketball team has three veterans back from last season's undefeated outfit and they may not make the starting lineup. Two big reasons are Lieut. Dutton Brookfield of Missouri and Pvt. Jim Krumtinger of Bradley Tech, a pair of 6-foot, 7-inch centers, after Marine Pfc. Jim Blvin, former Phillies flinger, landed on Tarawa, he reported. "Those machine gun bullets whizzed past us a lot faster than the line drives I used to duck in the pitcher's box."

Wolbert, Ann Ludwick Win Top Pin Prizes

Top prize for the number one single game rolled in city leagues last week went to D. Wolbert, who cracked out a 225 count on the Marion Recreation lanes. Ann Ludwick, Palace Recreation pinlady, was high in the women's division with a 173 game.

"ARAB BOWL" FOOTBALL GAME IN AFRICA. Before 15,000 grid-hungry generals and GI's, a football game was played at Oran, Algeria, New Year's day, in the first "Arab Bowl" game in history. An Army eleven defeated a Navy team, 10 to 7, playing touch football since no equipment was available. Corporal Benny (Zeke) Bonura, former major league baseball star, arranged the game as the last of the program which included a North African league game. The "Arab Bowl" is pictured. NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By CHIP ROYAL
Associated Press Features Sports Editor

JUDGE LANDIS

NEW YORK — In future years when they talk about baseball, more than one hot stove fan will climb the rostrum and say:

Remember that 1943 season? Gosh, I'll never forget it!"

"Well, that goes double (and then some), for the baseball men. They'll remember last season, and talk about it as long as they can.

It started off as one of those "may never finish" years. But the pessimists forgot to reckon with the amazing 77-year-old Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the revengeful New York Yankees, William D. Cox, nine-month president of the Phillies, and the major league players.

Some gloom was caused by northern spring training in subfreezing temperatures, loss of many stars to the armed forces, early season bad weather, a dead ball, and transportation delays.

All these were overcome in time. And there were just as many home runs, well pitched games, records and heroes as any fan could expect.

The American League, due largely to the managerial genius of Yankee mentor Joe McCarthy, whipped the National League, 5-3, in the All-Star game at Philadelphia, without using any of his champions.

Players In Spotlight

During the season, Spud Chandler, Bill Dickey and Billy Johnson of the Yankees, Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox, Rudy York and Dick Wakefield of the Tigers; Stan Musial, Mort and Walker Cooper of the Cardinals, Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, Bill Nicholson of the Cubs and Manager Mel Ott and Ace Adams of the Giants provided plenty of conversation for the faithful.

Chandler enjoyed a brilliant year. His earned run average of 1.61 — lowest in the American League since Walter Johnson's 1.49 in 1919 — was really an achievement. He also won 20 games while losing four to lead both loops, and was voted the American League's most valuable.

Dickey smacked the pill for 351, but the junior circuit batting championship went to Appling with his .328. The reason? Well, Bill played in only 85 games and Luke performed in 155. The rules say a player must be in 100 or more games to be considered for the crown.

Johnson won the rookie of the year designation with his handling of the hot sack for the Yanks. York hit the most home runs in the American League, 34, while Nicholson had that honor in the senior loop with 29.

Wakefield was a hot contender for the first-year honors because he went to bat the most times, 633, played in every game, was tops in hits 200, and was second among the full-season players with a batting average of .316.

Musial, most valuable player in the National League, also collected the most hits, 220, most total bases, 347, most doubles, 48, most triples, 20, and the best batting average, .357.

Mort Cooper had the best won-lost record in his league, 21 and 8, while brother Walker's bat did much to bring the loop championship to the Cardinals. Ott, by hitting 18 home runs, brought his lifetime total to 463, an all-time National League record. Adams, by pitching in 70 games, set a new mark.

Yanks Get Revenge

As for the World Series, the best way to describe it is: "The Yankees planned it that way." The New Yorkers had only one thought in their minds from the start of spring training—revenge.

The pitching of Chandler, Hank Borowy and Marius Russo brought Yankee triumphs of 4-2, 6-2, 2-1 and 2-0. Mort Cooper won the only game for the Cards when he shaded Tiny Bonham, 4-3, in the second clash.

The plays that decided the classic probably were Johnny Lindell's slide into Whitey Kurowski, Walker Cooper's failure to slide into second in the fourth game's eighth inning, and Bill Dickey's winning homer in the last game.

Landis had one of his most active years. The boundary line for spring training in the north was his first big work, the guiding of baseball through the tough early months was his second, the firing of Cox, his third, and the Branham minor league coup, his fourth.

Cox Barred

Cox gave baseball a lot of needed color with his handling of the Phils. Landis found that Cox went too far though when he bet on games in which his club was involved. Thus the one-time Yale player was barred from organized baseball for life.

Durocher still reigns supreme as mentor of the Dodgers although it was a tough struggle. First there was a players' rebellion, then Branch Rickey's dismissal of Leo as manager. Many thought Durocher was through, but Rickey rehired him a few weeks later for 1944.

Other highlights of the season were Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh and his blooper pitch, Bobo Newsom's travels from Brooklyn to St. Louis to Washington, etc., the early season battle by the Washington Senators who finished second to the Yanks, and Umpire Beans Reardon's pajama chase of a burglar through the St. Louis lobby.

Before the war, Britain produced one-third of her food; now she produces two-thirds.

DOUBLE MAIN-GO CARD BOOKED FOR ARMORY MAT

Gil LaCrosse, Whitey Walberg Matched In First Scrap.

Matchmaker Les Fishbaugh has whipped up a double main-go card for Thursday's Armory wrestling show.

Matched in the first of the two 90-minute scraps are Gil LaCrosse, the Toledo heavyweight star, and Whitey Walberg. Both are among the current Armory leaders, having won practically all of their matches here over a three month stretch.

The other hour and a half battle pits Buddy Knox, the tough Tennessee star, and Rufus Jones of New York City. Both are near the top of the Armory ladder. This match alone promises a sizeable dose of action.

To round out the card in stellar fashion, Fishbaugh has booked the ever-popular Irish McGee for a 30-minute tussle with Angelo Savoldi, a newcomer from New York. The opener is slated to get underway at 8:30 p. m.

OHIOANS FIGHT IN CHICAGO

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 — Jimmy Reeves of Cleveland took an easy eight-round decision from James Fitzjames of Canton, O., in a Marigold Gardens boxing match last night. Fitzjames, weighing 175, tired rapidly after the fourth round. Reeves weighed 171.

St. Mary To Meet Speedy Richwood Squad Wednesday

The [illegible] Marion St. Mary are [illegible] meet another [illegible] day night, the Richwood [illegible] who added by the [illegible] playing on their home floor, should prove more than [illegible] for the Parochials of [illegible] Coach.

The local Parochials, [illegible] been rudely treated [illegible] their 1942-43 opponents [illegible] many defeats, are naturally eager to put it mildly, [illegible] the lurking taste of triumph. But Richwood, like the last two St. Mary rivals, provide a formidable stumbling block for the realization of such desires.

Has Victory Over Harpster

Gene Fetter's Richwood team, a member of the last Union county league, does not have a record of the champion-ship class but nonetheless has one notable victory to its credit. That was the 37 to 34 overtime licking of Kenny Somerlot's Harpster quint. St. Mary lost to the same team, 31 to 30, in a thriller-roller on the local hard woods early last month. This is not much of a basis for choosing Richwood but it's still a point in the Fettermen's behalf.

Against Mt. Gilead's smooth-operators, mentored by Bob Blose, however, both the Irish and the Tigers were decisioned, but not by big margins. The Irish took the short end of a 39 to 36 count in a fray with the Gileadites, who tripped Richwood 41 to 38.

Four Lettermen

Coach Fetter at the latest census had four lettermen adorning his Richwood roster. They are Farrington, a senior, and Fish, Milligan, and McAllister, juniors. Two other boys who have been consistently good performers for the Tigers are Bob Somerlot, a guard who last year played for Welsh, who finished out his 1942-43 playing at Richwood after competing most of the year with the Radnor team of the Delaware county league.

Because of the frequently with which St. Mary is currently taking the floor in interscholastic cage ventures, Coach McCrate has not had much time to whip his charges into number shape. Inferior physical condition is reported to be one of main causes of the Irish fourth quarter fade-out against Claridon, which resulted in the fourth Parochial setback of the season. Most of the practice sessions at the Y. M. C. A. have been devoted to experiments with various St. Mary starting combinations in an effort to hit upon the most effective one.

164 Deer Reported Shot by Ohio Hunters

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3—Hunters killed 164 bucks during the state's first open deer season in about 50 years, the division of conservation and natural resources reported today.

Hayden Olds, assistant chief of the division's game management section, said the total was compiled from "kill cards" which hunters taking deer were required to turn over to the division.

Seventy bucks were taken on the 60,000-acre Roosevelt-Shawnee game preserve and the Flagg estate, a 15,000-acre tract leased by the state. The others were killed in other parts of Adams, Pike and Scioto counties to which hunting was restricted.

Only one deer was reported shot in Adams county, eight in Pike and the others in Scioto, mainly in the townships of Nile, Brush Creek and Union. Parts of all three townships lie in the game preserves.

Cleveland and Hershey Have Leading Scorers

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 4—If anybody wants to know why Hershey and Cleveland are leading their divisions of the American hockey league, the circuit's scoring record provides probably the best reason.

Hershey, tops in the eastern sector, and Cleveland, pace-setters in the western division, each have five players among the 13 leading scorers. And Wally Kilrea, who heads the list with 39 points, and runner-up Gaston Gauthier, with 36, are members of the Hershey club.

Tom Burlington and Lou Trudel of Cleveland provided most fireworks in the scoring department during the past week, however, each tallying seven points.

ILLINI WINS CLOSE GAME FROM BADGERS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Stan Patrick's 20 points, three of them donated in an overtime period, buoyed Illinois to a tight 45-43 victory over Wisconsin last night as the Big Ten conference basketball season opened.

Patrick, who won two letters at Santa Clara university before transferring to Illinois, scored 15 of his total points in the last half during a Badger uprising which dissolved the defending conference champions lead of 25-18 at halftime.

Meanwhile, Purdue suffered its second licking by Notre Dame this season and ran its losing string to four straight games as the Irish won at Lafayette last night 35-32. Notre Dame also was forced to come from behind at halftime, trailing 25-19, to win. Bill Lodge, the Boilermakers' leading scorer of the season, was declared scholastically ineligible and did not play.

Tonight's schedule sends unbeaten Camp Grant against Dow Chemical at Midland, Mich., Chicago to Glenview, Ill., air base and Indians to Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Plans were discussed for a ceremonial in April and Walter Guthrie, director, will name a cast of 40 or more members to take part in the work. A smoker and refreshment followed the meeting.

High Court Upholds Ohio Gas Rate Order

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — The supreme court upheld today an order of the federal power commission directing the Hope Natural Gas Co. to reduce its rates by $3,609,857 annually on natural gas consumed in Cleveland and Akron and in the Pittsburgh area.

In a 5-3 decision by Justice Douglass, the tribunal also refused to interfere with findings by the commission that rates charged since 1939 for gas consumed in Cleveland were excessive.

Cleveland officials said the commission's order might permit refunds aggregating more than $5,000,000, an average of approximately $20 a customer. Refund proceedings are before the Ohio public utilities commission.

Justices Frankfurter, Reed and Jackson dissented. Justice Roberts did not participate.

Blame Packer Problem on McNutt and WMC

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4 — An official of the Producers Livestock Co-Operative Association of Columbus today accused the war manpower commission of mismanagement in supplying labor for packers.

F. G. Kettner, secretary-treasurer of the marketing group which represents more than 80,000 livestock producers in Ohio and adjacent areas, said in a statement:

"Early in the summer a committee of hog men of which I was a member met with Chairman McNutt and fully explained the need for additional labor at packing plants in order to process the large number of hogs produced at the government request to supply needed meats and fats.

"The available amount of meats, both beef and pork, is not excessive, it is merely mismanagement through inexperience and refusal to accept sound counsel from the livestock and meat industry."

President Deeds N. Y. Property to Government

By The Associated Press

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 4 — President and Mrs. Roosevelt have deeded the family homestead and 33 acres of land at Hyde Park to the United States government for use as a "national historic site."

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt signed the deed Thursday in Washington and Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, accepted the gift Friday.

The new title transfer grants the President and his immediate family use of the home during their lifetimes and provides that town, county and state taxes shall be paid by the Roosevelts.

The deed gives the government the entire frontage of the original 110 acres bought by the President's father, James Roosevelt, on the Albany Post Road in 1867, but the President retains about 60 acres between the house and the Hudson river.

MARKET STILL ON SLOW SIDE

Stocks Still Suffer from New Year's Hangover and Recovery Lags.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Most stocks today still acted as though they were suffering from a New Year's hangover but southern market favorites managed to sit up and take a little nourishment.

Moderate replacement demand from early December tax sellers again was a price stabilizer. Buyers were reluctant to get too far out on a limb pending reconvening of congress, labor developments, the coming war loan drive and foreign happenings.

Prices were pretty well balanced near the fourth hour. Dealings remained sluggish.

On the improved side were U. S. Steel, Standard Oil (N. J.), Goodyear, Douglass Aircraft and American Telephone. Laggards included General Motors, Southern Railway, Goodrich, Union Carbide, J. C. Penney and Western Union "A."

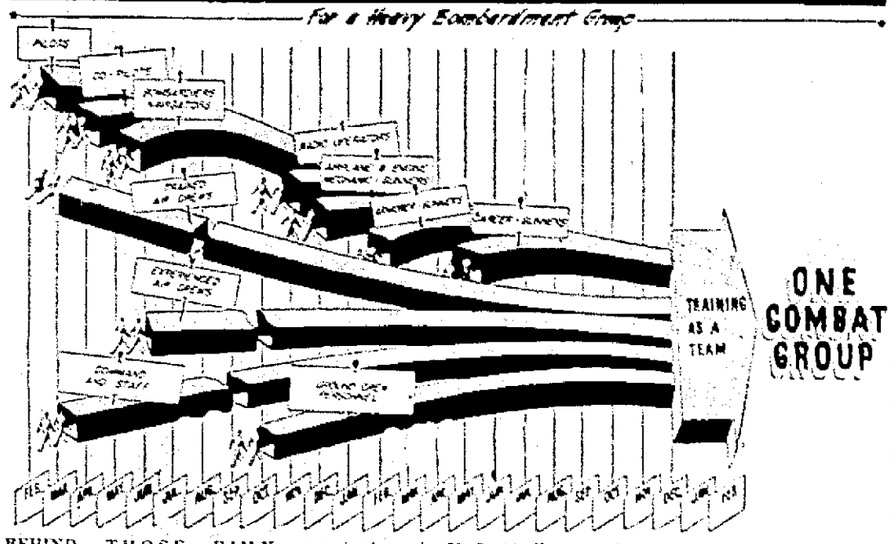
TRAINING PERIOD

For a Heavy Bombardment Group



BEHIND THOSE DAILY, TERSE COMMUNIQUES that tell of the extensive bombings now being carried out by U. S. Air Forces in all war theatres is a story of lengthy, difficult training. It's not just a simple task of loading the planes with bombs and men and sending them over enemy targets after a few months of instruction. Approximately two years are required, as the U. S. Air Force chart shows, to develop complete air teams into a deadly combat group that can operate against the enemy with negligible losses. Experienced instructors, pilots, navigators, ground crewmen, mechanics, gunners, and other air force personnel are welded together into one unit in assembly line fashion. Individual training produces skilled specialists which are joined into fighting teams. Further along the line they are assembled into more complex combat teams, and finally into a single combat group—the groups that are wrecking the enemy's production plants behind the lines, his defenses at the front, and blasting his ships to the bottom of the sea.

Employes of AFL Union Join CIO Press Guild

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 4—Powers Hapgood, regional CIO director, said today a majority of the 12 editorial employes of the International Teamster, official magazine of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), had become members of the Indianapolis newspaper guild.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the teamsters' union, will be asked to recognize the guild as bargaining agency for his employes, Hapgood said.

Other guild officials said they believed this was the first instance of a CIO union negotiating with an AFL union for a contract.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

High on a Tunisian cliff a Free French soldier lay wounded. A litter squad started up. Enemy bullets spatted against the cliff. The squad went on. In a whizzing hail of lead they brought their ally down. For that exploit Staff Sergeant Roy L. Bates of Fairfield, Ill., and Privates Hobert Branscum of Dana, Ky., Anthony P. Colt of Johnstown, Pa., and William B. Griffin of Sylvester, Texas, won Silver Stars. They deserve your War Bond backing.

BUYING SUPPORTS RYE, WHEAT PRICES

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Wheat and rye prices, supported by scattered buying, made fractional gains today in a moderately active market when opened somewhat weak. Rye entered new high seasonal ground and held firm most of the session. Oats, however, held within a narrow range.

Purchases of the September wheat contract by an export house were fairly large and there was a great deal of switching from one delivery to another. A leading local was a good buyer of May rye while commission house demand centered on the deferred deliveries.

U. S. COURT RULES IN OBJECTORS CASE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The supreme court ruled today that a draft registrant who objects to the classification given him by a draft board must report for duty before he can test in the courts the validity of the board's action.

The 8-1 opinion by Justice Black, with Justice Murphy dissenting, said it was "well understood" that "dire consequences might flow from apathy and delay" and that the selective service act was "passed to mobilize national manpower with the speed which that necessity and understanding required."

Black explained that an order to report for induction is not the "equivalent of acceptance for service" because "the selectee may still be rejected at the induction center and the conscientious objector who is opposed to non-combatant duty may be rejected at the civilian public service camp."

"Thus," Black asserted, "a board order to report is no more than a necessary indeterminate step in a united and continuous process designed to raise an army speedily and efficiently."

The decision specifically involved Nick Falbo of West Newton, Pa., a member of "Jehovah's Witnesses." Falbo contended he should have been classified as a minister completely exempt from military training and service.

Instead he was classified as a conscientious objector and was ordered to report for work under civilian direction at Big Flats, New York. He failed to report and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by the federal district court at Pittsburgh.

vilian population can probably shorten the war, can certainly prevent it from being unnecessarily prolonged, by taking decisive and spectacular measures to show that the prosecution of the war has precedence over every other consideration.

No one can measure these things exactly. But no one, who knows the situation, can seriously deny the enormous benefit that would follow if labor renewed its pledges not to strike during the war, if congress pulled itself together and had the courage to pass a universal service act.

Soldiers Help Handle Rush at Stockyards

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—The services of 175 soldiers from nearby Fort Sheridan were enlisted yesterday to help stock yard workers handle a heavy volume of hogs at the Chicago yards.

Hog receipts at the world's biggest yards hit a 10-year high of 54,000.

Farmers in the corn belt unloaded 241,000 head at main livestock terminals and at the end of the market thousands remained unsold, including 17,000 at Chicago.

The receipts at the centers were the largest single day's volume since Jan. 5, 1925, when 277,000 hogs arrived. The Chicago run was the highest since Jan. 8, 1934.

Farmers were urged to withhold shipments until the glutted situation at the centers cleared.

Navy Announces Loss of Destroyer in Atlantic

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—The Navy yesterday disclosed the loss of a destroyer in the Atlantic on Christmas eve, by an enemy torpedo. The announcement followed by only a few hours, the destruction of another, near the entrance to lower New York bay, by two blasts of undetermined origin.

The destroyers were the 41st and 42nd lost since the start of the war of a total of 137 naval vessels of all types which have been lost.

The Navy communique on the Atlantic sinking did not disclose whether the torpedo had been fired by a submarine, airplane or surface craft.

Fumes Kill Teacher in Unusual Accident

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 4—An unusual accident cost Alvin H. Brown, a teacher in the Lincoln Junior High school in Youngstown, O., his life yesterday, the coroner's office reported.

While inspecting the engine of his car with a flashlight and a screwdriver, on which he had wrapped a handkerchief for safety, Brown apparently was shocked unconscious by electricity. Before he revived he died of carbon monoxide fumes from the engine.

Sinatra To Begin New Program; In Big Time

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — Frank Sinatra starts the New Year in really big time.

Now in Hollywood for his second movie, he will be heard on the CBS network Wednesday night in a new weekly series, in addition to his Saturday night Hit Parade appearances. He will start off with film star Ginger Rogers and Minerva Plus, radio dialect expert. Air time is 8 o'clock.

Sinatra, a graduate of the Major Bowes amateurs, has contracts signed and in prospect which his representatives say should put him into the million-dollar class before the year is over.

CIO Council To Elect and Install Officers

for him politically.

At the same time, the railroad labor got around the little steel formula. No resentments or recriminations presumably would be in order, on the part of the unions at least, if the government had not been so devious, and, in several spots, just a little too slick.

I am sorry to be so mysterious. I went on, wondering from what depths within me I was pumping up the courage to speak to him. "But I want you to know I am considered very proficient in the use of this, and I shall not miss it if I have to use it."

"I can understand your excitement," I said, "but if you will be quiet, I will explain the real purpose of what I just told you. Then you can decide for yourself whether you care to continue."

His eyes rolled uncertainly from me to my gun climbing the steep path. Step by step I went on, and I knew that an inner war was beginning to control him. Fear and hate, terror and anger were there battling ruthlessly for the supremacy of his mind. Slowly, a quietness began to come over him, a quality which seemed to be in the mental make-up.

"All right," he said at last, pushing away from me and walk-

YOUR HEALTH

For Expectant Mothers

THERE IS nothing particularly new about various essays and there are quite a number of books available for the expectant mother to read so that she will understand. But while Nature doesn't require obstetrician's opinions about and instructions, opinions also are a well to have a sound practical summary of all the latest scientific information, such as Dr. Marie A. Costello of Philadelphia, with experience, writes in "A Book for Expectant Mothers and Prospective Fathers." Published by Macmillan Co., New York.

I am not sure that knowing all about it makes pregnancy and childbirth any easier, but in the language of the street barker—"You can't tell what's going on without a program," and I suppose that's a justification enough for such treatises. Dr. Costello emphasizes the stress in which the woman really needs attention—exercise, clothes, food during the important period; nursing, the sometimes after the event, leaving the gruesome details of the actual procedure to a sort of "What you don't know won't hurt you" chapter.

There are, however, sufficiently complete accounts of the anatomy and physiology of the reproductive system ("The Facts of Life" is the name of that Chapter) to the medical student to whom the physician looks for his preliminary examination of the system of labor, the most modern ideas about obstetrical anaesthesia.

But for comment I prefer to abstract what he says about the factors and procedures that the patient carries on when she is normal and expectating with the doctor.

For instance, the diet during pregnancy.

"Do not overeat in helping. You are eating for two now." The expectant mother will hear that over and over again, but Dr. Costello puts out explicit "You are eating for just one—yourself," he says plainly, and the scientific reasons are

THE DOG-CATCHER IS COMING - THE DOG-CATCHER IS COMING
DON'T BE SCARED, ZERO, AN' PLEASE DON'T BARK-EXCUSE ME, ZERO, I DIDN'T WANNA SHOVE YOU INTO THAT OLD TRASH BOX-
BUT EVEN IF YOU ARE A CIRCUS STAR, I JUS' DON'T TRUST DOG-KETCHERS-
